GOP HOUSE CONTEST . . .

Bob Denney Winner In First District Race

Fairbury attorney Robert Denney gained a relatively easy triumph early Wednesday in the three-man Republican battle for the right to challenge First District Democratic Rep. Clair Callan in the November general election.

Callan won nomination for a second term without opposition.

Denney, 49, who served as GOP state chairman from 1961 to 1964, moved swiftly into the lead over David City farmer-feeder Loran Schmit and Lincoln salesman Robert Krall.

Meanwhile, Gov. Frank Morrison romped to a landslide triumph over Columbus businessman Raymond Arndt.

ROBERT DENNEY . . . will oppose Callan for the Democratic senatorial nod. Morrison will bump into Republican Sen. Carl Curtis in a classic Senate collision in November. Curtis won nomination to a third Senate term without opposition.

There were no other contests for national office in the primary election.

Denney has defined the two major issues in the 1966 congressional battleground as the war in Viet Nam and domestic inflation.

His contest with Schmit, 36, a former president of the Nebraska Young Republicans, had become considerably heated in the final days of the campaign when Schmit accused party leaders of attempting to dictate Denney's nomination.

Krall, 27, a former newspaperman, was running third in the 30-county eastern Nebraska district, which includes the Capital City.

'Rubber Stamp' Denney has indicated that he will attack Callan as "a rubber stamp" for President Johnson, and stress the need for a Republican victory in November to preserve the two-party system.

Callan, 46, Odell farmer, stockman and businessman, was first elected to the House in 1964, largely on the strength of a big Lincoln plurality.

Morrison, 60, who is completing his third term as governor, has already directed his campaign at Curtis, citing the need for "a positive voice" in the Senate.

Curtis, 61, has served in the Senate since 1955 and is completing his 28th consecutive year as a member of the Congress. He has pledged to run on his record.

In the four-county, Omaha-dominated Second District, five-term Republican Rep. Glenn Cunningham will face Omaha attorney Richard Fellman in a November contest.

Republican Rep. Dave Martin will seek his fourth term in a general election clash with Cedar Rapids farmer and businessman John Hoffman in the vast 59-county Third District.

Vatican City (AP)—The Vatican announced Tuesday a five-day program of celebrations to commemorate the millennium of Christianity in Poland.

The celebrations will start Thursday with a mass celebrated by Carlo Cardinal Confalonieri, a member of the Vatican Curia, and rector of Polish Roman Catholic missions abroad, and end Monday with a religious service at the Polish war cemetery at Monte Cassino.

Highlight of the celebration will be a mass said by Pope Paul VI at St. Peter's Basilica Sunday.

Newcomer Defeats Veteran Peterson

. . . Lieutenant Governor Bests Sen. Burbach, Ley

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Swift-moving political newcomer Norbert Tiemann scored a solid victory early Wednesday over former three-term Gov. Val Peterson in the feature struggle of Nebraska's 1966 primary election.

To the winner goes the Republican gubernatorial nomination and a November general election date with Lt. Gov. Philip Sorensen, winner of a three-man Democratic gubernatorial primary scrap.

Peterson conceded defeat shortly after midnight, wiring Tiemann from Hastings: "Congratulations on your victory and all good wishes in November."

Operation Comeback' Contacted by telephone at his home in Wausa, Tiemann said his primary victory marks "the beginning of Operation Comeback 1966" for Nebraska's Republican Party.

For the first time since 1956, he said, the GOP has "a genuine chance" to capture the governorship.

"The mantle of leadership has passed to a new generation," he declared.

'Vigorous Campaign' Reached by telephone in Omaha, Sorensen promised "a vigorous campaign and a discussion of the issues through which we can continue to make Nebraska a better place to live."

The Tiemann-Sorensen battle this fall will be a showpiece for youth. Both candidates are young, and most of their campaign workers are youthful.

The winner is likely not only to gain the governor's office, but also to inherit the leadership of his political party.

In First Office Sorensen, 32, Lincoln attorney serving his first term as lieutenant governor, is the younger brother of Theodore Sorensen, the late President Kennedy's chief aide and advisor.

Tiemann, 41, a bank president from the tiny (pop. 725) northeastern community of Wausa, came from relative political anonymity six months ago to catch Peterson with one of the longest and most aggressive campaigns in Nebraska primary history.

Saturation Ads Utilizing saturation advertising techniques and 600 personal appearances in all 93 counties, Tiemann bounded into contention mid-way through the primary campaign.

In many ways, it was a classic showdown between youth and experience.

Tiemann offered Nebraska Republicans "a new face, new blood, new ideas" for the governor's office while Peterson stressed the importance which experience could play in leading the state to balanced industrial and agricultural growth.

Peterson, one of Nebraska's best-known political figures, carried public service credentials perhaps unprecedented in the state's gubernatorial history.

Peterson, 62, a Hastings businessman, served as governor from 1947 to 1953, then joined the Eisenhower administration for a number of top federal assignments, capped by a four-year tour (1957 to 1961) as U.S. ambassador to Denmark.

Hagemeister Third Running third was late-starting Hemmingford grain dealer Bruce Hagemeister, an outspoken supporter of a broadened tax base.

Sorensen, whose family background is steeped in the political tradition of George W. Norris and John F. Kennedy, has promised "positive programs" to meet state problems, including a comprehensive program of tax reform.

Sorensen's victory attracted national attention from both major wire services early Wednesday.

Running second in the Democratic struggle was State Sen. Jules Burbach, 54, Crofton grain and feed dealer who is serving his fifth term in the Legislature.

Burbach ran on a program of broad tax reform, including support for a combination sales-income tax.

Finishing last was former State Banking Director Henry Ley, 63, a Wayne banker who resigned his state post to seek the gubernatorial nod.

Everroad Wins GOP Scramble

. . . FOR LT. GOVERNOR

Omaha businessman John Everroad swept to victory early Wednesday in the seven-candidate scramble for the Republican nomination for lieutenant governor.

Everroad will meet State Sen. Ross Rasmussen of Hooper on the November general election ballot.

Rasmussen won the Democratic nomination in a romp over Mrs. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff.

Meanwhile, State Treasurer Fred Sorensen of Omaha moved far ahead of Mrs. Ralph G. Brooks of McCook in the Democratic scrap for the treasurer's nod.

Narrower Contest A narrower contest developed for the Republican nomination, with State Railway Commissioner Wayne Swanson of Lincoln holding a slim margin over fellow Commissioner Richard Larson, also of the Capital City.

Everroad, 53, president of an Omaha diesel engine and supply firm, making his second bid for the state's second highest office, pledged in his campaign to serve as "sales manager" for the state in its efforts to attract industry, trade and tourism.

Running second was State Sen. Kenneth Bowen of Red Cloud, a 54-year-old businessman, speaker of the 1965 Legislature and long-time supporter of a broadened tax base.

Everroad is strongly opposed to either a state income or general sales tax.

Third Term Rasmussen, 49, a turf grass farmer, is a broadened tax base proponent. Serving his third term in the Legislature, he is best known as chairman of the Unicameral's Education Committee.

Mrs. Carpenter, 56, wife of the fiery Scottsbluff senator and an opponent of the state income tax law, trailed all the way in the Democratic scrap.

Treasurer Sorensen, 67, who is completing his first term, has been subjected to criticism from Mrs. Brooks for his action in placing $925,000 in idle state funds on deposit in non-interest-bearing bank accounts.

Mrs. Brooks, 58, widow of Nebraska's former (1959-60) governor, never led.

Swanson, 51, is completing his 10th consecutive year as a railway commissioner. Larson, 70, who is completing his 23rd year on the commission, lost to another fellow commissioner in a primary contest in 1964.

Meanwhile, in a Douglas County contest for the new Second District seat on the Railway Commission, Omaha businessman James F. Munnely, 44, grabbed the lead over two opponents for the Democratic nomination.

Other primary races for statewide elective partisan office were uncontested.

Key Charter Changes Fail

By BOB SCHREPF
Star Staff Writer

As late hour ballot counting continued Wednesday morning, less than half of the state of eighteen amendments to the City Charter had won approval of voters in the special city election, and several more appeared to be in doubt.

Voters swapped two amendments recommended by the Charter Revision Committee and others regarded as important by city officials failed to gain the needed support.

Late returns, however, could push the number of amendments approved over the 50% mark, an achievement that Charter Committee Chairman Richard Hansen said would still signal a victory for his group.

"I speak for all members of the committee when I express the gratification experienced by the vote today and for such endorsement as was generally given to our labors," said Hansen.

Defeated by more than 2-1 by a light voter turnout was the proposed "home rule" tax amendment which would have removed the charter-imposed ceiling on the city's property tax mill levy.

Suffering an almost equal negative response was a proposal to raise the pay of City Council members from $20 per regular meeting to $3,000 annually. The raise would not have become effective until a new council is elected in 1967.

Mason Comments

The loss of this amendment prompted Councilman John Mason to comment, "something will have to be done to attract the right calibre of public servant." Other council members and the charter committee had argued that the present pay is prohibitive to aspiring young civic leaders.

The tax amendment was submitted because city officials feared that a combination of outside forces could materially reduce the total valuation on which the city bases its tax levy limit. The amendment, officials claimed, would leave the city financing to local control.

Commenting on the defeat of Proposition 14, City Finance Director James Mallon said that "in all probability, the city in the next fiscal year

State Supreme Court decision which ruled that non-Nebraska stocks must be assessed at book rather than at market value.

Funds Hurt Mallon claims the ruling "will cause violence" to the city's ability to raise money for general government purposes.

"We can't increase taxes on tangibles if the ceiling is drastically lowered, and we can't tell what shape we are in until the actual valuations are returned by the county assessor . . . At this point it doesn't look good," Mallon said.

Councilman Mason, disturbed over the failure of the tax amendment to pass, said that it will have to be approved in some form or another, "maybe in another special election."

"This is almost a necessity since Lincoln is expanding. The citizens must have another opportunity to pass it," said Mason.

Voters approved changes in the charter which will require the council to establish a code of ethics for city officials and for formal negotiations Thursday and Friday.

Costs to rehabilitate the base and operate the center will be about $10 million, he said. Grantham is an executive of the sponsoring Northern Natural Gas Co.

He said plans now call for a center of some 1,100 persons and a staff of about 500. About 530 acres of the 5,000-acre total at the base will be needed for the Job Corps. The base is scheduled to close in June.

Grantham said a decrease of 400 corpsmen and 70 staff members was forced by a cut in available Job Corps funds.

Northern Natural Gas received another green light in connection with the center Monday when the General Services Administration authorized use of part of the base for a center. The authorization takes effect June 25, the day the Air Force deactivates the base.

Grantham said the action allows Northern Natural to sign a contract with the Office of Economic Opportunity to operate the base while the General Services Administration and the city of Lincoln work out problems on leasing the property.

The General Services Administration handles property no longer needed by other federal agencies.

LBJ Begins Viet Review With Lodge And Aides

Washington (AP) — President Johnson launched a searching review of programs, policies and problems in Viet Nam Tuesday in conferences with his ambassador to Saigon and his top military and diplomatic advisers.

The President told reporters he had had "a very profitable visit" with Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge.

Johnson spent 45 minutes alone with Lodge. Then he and the ambassador met for another hour-and-a-half with Secretary of State Dean Rusk, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara and other members of the National Security Council.

Afterward, Johnson sat in the presidential chair in the Cabinet room with his experts around the table and listed for newsmen topics that were considered:

—From Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, what Johnson called a rather full report on the military situation in Viet Nam.

—From Lodge, a "rather general report" and an analysis of the economic and political issues as he sees them.

—A discussion of political issues around the table, led by Rusk.

—A supplementary review of the military situation by McNamara.

Johnson said he had asked "these wise men, all of whom I rely on, to supply all the information and advice they have."

administration from the other side of the globe.

Lodge also brought back—and into the meeting — Col. Edward Lansdale, an expert in counterinsurgency who now is a special adviser to Lodge on rural pacification. Lansdale has been operating from time to time in Viet Nam and his methods have been occasionally controversial.

Lodge flew back from Viet Nam last week to make the rounds of Washington, starting at the White House, and to report on what he has seen and what he foresees regarding the war with the Communist Viet Cong and the Internal politics of South Viet Nam.

Johnson, the White House said, asked Lodge to see other key officials of the government and to return to see him at least one more time during a stay expected to run on through the week.

Compensation Pledged . . .

Victims Get U.S. Solace

Saigon (AP)—The U.S. embassy expressed deep sympathy Tuesday for Vietnamese victims of American gunfire that raked a Saigon street in hair-trigger reaction to the explosion of a Viet Cong mine. Compensation was pledged to stricken families.

The bizarre action which led to the death of five Vietnamese civilians came during a lull in the war.

Monsoon rains slowed fighting on the ground and in the air. A U.S. spokesman announced the communists sent up neither MIGs nor missiles against planes raiding North Viet Nam.

A Vietnamese policeman, three women and a child were killed and 29 persons, including eight Americans, were wounded in the incident that bloodied pavement and scarred buildings of Hai Ba Trung Street, near the capital's old opera square.

Erroneous Belief

Most were hit after the mine blast in a half hour of shooting by U.S. sentries and machine gunners who believed—erroneously—a U.S. Army spokesman said later—that they were under fire from Viet Cong terrorists. The spokesman said shots loosed by an American military police touched off the fusillade.

Seven Vietnamese were arrested on suspicion of planting the mine, a pellet-scattering Claymore detonated in a morning rain at a military bus stop outside the Suzi Wong tailor shop, which caters to American servicemen from three nearby billets. But all were cleared and freed after questioning.

"Our hearts go out to the innocent victims of this affair," the U.S. embassy said in a statement. "The root cause of it is, of course, the Viet Cong."

Rep. John E. Moss, D-Calif., head of a House subcommittee studying U.S. aid to Viet Nam, said the shooting "was a regrettable misjudgment that could happen anywhere, anytime, under similar circumstances."

Red China Boss Reappears In Public

Tokyo (AP)—Radio Peking said Chinese Communist leader Mao Tze-tung appeared in public Tuesday, ending speculation that he was seriously ill. He had not been officially reported at public functions for six months.

Radiorphotos from Peking showed Mao smiling with Premier Mehmet Shehu of Albania, who is in the Red capital on an official visit. The 72-year-old Mao seemed as roly-poly as ever, with no sign of having lost weight.

There have been reports that Mao suffered from a heart condition. The last official word of his activity was Nov. 26, when Peking reported he met with a Cambodian delegation in Shanghai. Recently, however, a New York report said Mao was at Peking airport Feb. 28 to see off Kwame Nkrumah, who was ousted from the presidency of Ghana while visiting Red China, but Peking never mentioned this appearance.

Peking and New China News Agency broadcasts said Mao was host at a banquet for the Albanians, who are Red China's long ally in Europe in Peking's feud with Moscow.

Peking made no mention of why Mao had been absent for so long and said nothing about his health. Officials in Peking twice denied recently that he was ill.

Mao frequently has absented himself from Peking for long periods of rest and study in the past 20 years.

The report of his reappearance coincided with the announcement that Red China had detonated its third nuclear bomb Monday. Peking said Shehu hailed the blast as "a very great victory not only for People's China but for the socialist camp and mankind."

Chou Asserts U.S. Pact Rejection Forces China To Acquire A-Bomb

. . . LATEST BLAST SENDS SHIVERS THROUGH NEIGHBORS

Tokyo (AP)—Premier Chou En-lai said Tuesday night the United States turned down a proposal by Red China that the two countries agree never to use nuclear weapons against each other. He asserted this forced the Chinese to develop the weapons.

Commenting on Red China's third nuclear blast Monday, Chou told a banquet for a visiting Albanian delegation in Peking that "nuclear weapons can save neither U.S. imperialism nor the revisionist leading group of the Soviet Union." Albania supports Peking's feud with Moscow.

"All reactionary forces are doomed to extinction, whatever new weapons they wield," the New China News Agency (NCNA) quoted him as saying.

"China has proposed to the United States that the two countries undertake the obligation of not being the first to use nuclear weapons against each other, but U.S. imperialism has rejected China's proposal."

Not Specific

He did not say when or where the proposal was made. He said that instead the United States "continued to develop and mass produce nuclear weapons of various kinds, further expanded its nuclear bases all over the world, particularly those around China and stepped up its nuclear blackmail."

He again accused the United States and the Soviet Union of working together to maintain world domination and to protect their "nuclear monopoly" and added:

"In these circumstances, China cannot but conduct necessary and limited nuclear tests to develop nuclear weapons."

The nuclear blast sent waves of apprehension among nations on Red China's periphery.

Nationalist China and South Korea said the explosion showed Red China's aggressive intentions.

Japan Protests

Prime Minister Eisaku Sato's government in Japan, the only nation to feel the wrath of an atomic bomb in wartime, protested the test, saying, "It ignored the fervent wish of mankind."

Foreign Minister Swaran Singh of India, whose nation is threatened by Red China along the northern border, called the test "arrogant defiance" of worldwide wishes for an end to nuclear testing.

Little Nepal in the shadow of Red China was uneasy. A foreign office spokesman said Nepal was "deeply concerned" about the new Chinese test.

Ky Reiterates Stand

Saigon (AP)—Premier Nguyen Cao Ky confirmed Wednesday he intends to remain in power through the long process of electing a civilian government. This, he said, may take another year.

"We now have an organization to take care of this," he told newsmen.

It is up to those in this organization to carry out the process of the civilian takeover, he said. He reiterated that the process will consist of elections for a constituent assembly, drafting of the constitution and then another election for a legislative assembly.

"I said before that I am staying until the civilian government is elected," Ky said.

"And how long will it take?" newsmen asked.

"I said it before."

"Will it take one year or more?"

"I think so," Ky replied.

"Will it take until the middle of 1967?"

"Yes," came a reply from the head of the military junta. In Washington, a State Department spokesman, asked to comment, referred to what Secretary of State Dean Rusk had already said on the subject.

He referred to Rusk's remarks last Sunday, and again Monday, following a similar statement by Ky, that the secretary did not think Ky would be an obstacle to this transition to civilian government.

Chrysler Trims Sails

Detroit (AP)—Chrysler Corp. Tuesday became the third member of the automotive big three to trim car production schedules.

It said two of its seven assembly plants would be closed four days, beginning May 31, "to adjust production schedules with inventory."

Chrysler's action came hours after two of the industry's top executives said the auto safety issue had hurt auto sales.

Roy Abernethy, president of American Motors Corp., and of the Automobile Manufacturers Association, said a survey "completed by our marketing consultants Monday showed that the (auto safety) hearings are having a negative effect on sales."

Arjay Miller, president of Ford Motor Co., mentioned the "harassment" of the auto safety issue in reporting a slowdown of Ford production this month.

American Motors, which had two brief shutdowns in the past year while other companies were having boom sales, said it had no current plans to cut production.

Usually reliable sources in the industry said the slowdown in the hectic production pace reflected the fact an all-time high inventory of 1,582,844 new cars was in dealer hands or enroute to them as of May 1.

Ward's Automotive Reports, a trade publication, commented:

"The auto industry merely had reached the balance-out stage of its 1966 model year program and found both its inventory and production to be excessive. It had no choice but to take remedial action. New car sales are not coming apart at the seams."

DIRKSEN'S BROKEN HIP TAKES 1½ HOURS TO SET

Washington (AP)—Sen. Everett M. Dirksen, 70, in the hospital for a routine check-up, fell in getting out of bed early Tuesday and fractured his right hip.

The Illinois Republican underwent 90 minutes of repair surgery in midmorning by a team of orthopedic specialists at Walter Reed Army Medical Center.

The hospital said Dirksen, the Senate GOP leader, probably would remain in the hospital two or three weeks and would be on crutches several weeks thereafter.

His Senate colleagues here advised by Sen. Bourke B. Hickenlooper of Iowa, chairman of the Senate Republican Policy Committee, after the operation. "The doctors feel that so far as they can tell now, no complications are indicated."

Democratic leader Mike Mansfield of Montana told newsmen he does not believe Dirksen's accident will slow the Senate's legislative schedule.

Soon after the Senate met, Mansfield led his colleagues in a round of tributes to Dirksen, wishes for a speedy recovery, and declarations of how much his rumpled countenance and organ-tuned voice would be missed.

President Johnson, flying back from his Texas ranch, arranged to divert a plane to pick up Dirksen's wife in Knoxville, Tenn., where she had been making a Mother's Day visit with her daughter.

Mrs. Dirksen's plane landed at Andrews Air Force Base just ahead of the President's. Johnson invited her to ride with him in his helicopter to the White House. From there the chopper whisked Mrs. Dirksen off to Walter Reed to be with her husband.

Karnopp Pushed, Pulls Away As Vote Mounts

A former Lancaster County deputy sheriff, Kenneth Nelson, pushed his ex-boss, incumbent Sheriff Merle Karnopp, before dropping behind as the results of Tuesday's primary election poured in.

Showing surprising strength, the 31-year-old Nelson stayed close to Karnopp most of the way. Nelson had resigned his deputyship when he announced his plan to challenge the sheriff.

Karnopp, elected to his first term as sheriff in 1950, will face Bob Colin, easy winner of the Democratic nomination over Kenneth Tenopir and John L. Austin. Colin operates an electric motor service.

Housewife Leads

A housewife who has been active in Republican circles, Mrs. Carol J. Walker, began pulling away from Samuel L. Potet at about midway in the counting and was apparent winner of the county clerk nomination. The incumbent, Democrat Carl Hartman, had no opposition.

Mrs. Walker, 33, has been prominent in city, county and state Young Republican organizations.

One county position, that of assessor, was vacated. Arthur Davis, the incumbent, is retiring. Fritz Meyer, who has served as chief deputy assessor since 1960, earned the GOP nod over Wilbur Houtchens.

The Democratic candidate will be Lawson Chadwick, unsuccessful candidate for the City Council in 1963 and for the Legislature in 1964. He ran unopposed.

Close Contest

A tight race was being waged between Lawrence Murphy, attorney, and Jack H. Reams, businessman, for the Republican nomination to the Board of Commissioners from the Second District. Murphy, beaten in previous attempts for a seat on the City Council and in the Legislature, was leading. It was Reams' first try at public office.

The winner faces incumbent Democrat Ralph Harlan of Hickman, current chairman of the board, who was unopposed.

Kenneth Bourne, Third District commissioner, easily defeated Edward Leback for renomination. The winner will face either Paul Stoehr, manager of the Compass Room at the Municipal Airport, or Charles Bates, retired businessman. Stoehr held an inconclusive lead with the vote half counted.

Republican Carl E. Berg, 74, who is seeking his eighth term as treasurer, will face Willard J. Wells, 61, a Democrat, in the general election. Neither was opposed in the primary.

Berg was first appointed treasurer in 1936 to fill an unexpired term and was elected to his first four-year term in 1938.

Wells, now serving as state purchasing agent, served four years as deputy Lancaster County clerk until his appointment to the state post in 1963. He served as deputy Cuming County treasurer for nine years.

The following Lancaster County office holders were unopposed: Paul Douglas, attorney; Hugh Dillon, surveyor; Dr. Glenn Turner, superintendent of schools; Wilford Sanders, clerk of the district court; and Kenneth Ferguson, register of deeds.

Swanson Renominated For Board Of Regents

A former All-America football player, Clarence E. Swanson, easily won renomination to the University of Nebraska Board of Regents in the First District, but a contest was in progress for a second spot on the November ballot.

State Sen. Hal Bauer and another former NU football star, Edward Schwartzkopf, were vying for the second spot. Schwartzkopf, Lincoln, a public schools employee, was leading with less than half the vote counted. Leo Bartunek, Lincoln lawyer, trailed.

In the Third District State Board of Education contest, incumbent Hamilton Mitten of Fremont trailed Dr. Alton P. Burkhardt of Norfolk. Burkhardt is executive director of the Association of Nebraska Taxpayers, a group strongly opposed to adoption

Candidates For Legislature Find Voters Have Surprises

Nebraska voters had a few surprises for candidates for the Legislature in Tuesday's primary election.

Sens. William Hasebroeck of West Point and Peter Chausen of Leigh trailed Frank J. Cada of Clarkson in the new 18th District. Hasebroeck held a slim margin over Chausen for the second spot on the November ballot.

In the 22nd District Sen. Herb Nore lagged behind Kenneth Troczon and Dwayne Smith in a close fight for a place in the general election.

William Wylie of Elgin was also threatened with ouster in the primary as Joe Brewster of Stuart held a big lead in early returns and John DeCamp of Neligh was running a close third in the 40th District scrap.

Sen. Lester Harsh of Bartley grabbed a sizeable lead over Sen. H. C. Crandall of Curtis in the new 38th District. They will face a rematch in the fall.

Former Omaha senator, Mike Russillo, gained a narrow row margin over Sen. Henry Pedersen with over half of the votes counted in the 4th District. Two other candidates, apparently nominated Glenn A. Goodrich and Bill K. Bloom, although William Growney was still within striking distance with slightislative districts, created by more than half of the ballot under the recent reapportionment plan.

Hasebroeck Chausen Cada Nore Russillo Pedersen

All other incumbents were in the 14th district Joseph O'Connor, Theodore Strasser, 35th District Sen. Don Elrod Larry Bowley and Florence was in a close contest with B Reynolds were locked in Arch Jarrell retired news-tight struggle for the two man, whom he'll face again general election spots within the general election

Simpson, Wilcox Win Nod In 46th

Charles E. Wilcox and Harold D. Simpson will vie in November for the 46th District seat in the Legislature vacated by Sen. Hal Bauer.

Wilcox, manager of a real estate and auction company; and Simpson, a milling and elevator company employee, led a four-man field. Joseph M. Franson and Lawrence L. Sintek were third and fourth, respectively.

Franson was apparently close enough to edge Simpson for the second spot, but only if trends prevalent throughout the counting were sharply reversed.

Roland Luedtke outpolled James C. Weaver in the 28th District race, but both will be nominated and they'll meet again in November.

Luedtke, an attorney, is a former deputy secretary of state. Weaver is a gasoline and oil distributor.

Sen. John E. Knight, insurance company president and officer of a bank, far outdistanced two rivals in the 26th District. The two, Eugene C. Newburn and Rudolph D. Andersen, trailed badly, with Andersen, a real estate salesman, apparent winner of the second spot on the November ballot.

County Voters Follow Trend In Most Races

Lancaster County voters followed statewide trends in Tuesday's primary election, giving their nod to Philip Sorensen, Norbert Tiemann and Robert Denney.

Sorensen, the lieutenant governor, carried Lancaster County in his effort to win the Democratic gubernatorial nomination. He defeated State Sen. Jules Burbach and Henry Ley.

Tiemann piled up a large lead over former Gov. Val Peterson in his quest for the GOP gubernatorial nod. Bruce Hagemeister was a distant third.

And Denney, former state Republican chairman, outdistanced two rivals, Loran Schmit of David City and Robert Krall of Lincoln to carry the county on his way to winning the Republican First District congressional nomination.

Some Charter Changes Fail

employees and will permit the council to create a human relations commission if it desires.

Narrowly defeated was an amendment which would have taken away from the council the review of decisions by the Board of Zoning Appeals. Appeals from the board rulings would have been taken to the courts.

Records Item OK'd

The public records amendment which provides for prior notification of official meetings of bodies supported by tax funds and that records of city officials and meetings be made open to the public won a comfortable margin of support.

Winning amendments become effective when the Election Commission's official canvass is reported and accepted by the City Council, possibly May 23.

The process of revamping Lincoln's home rule charter began over a year ago with the organization of the City Charter Revision Committee.

At that time Hansen said that it would not be that group's concern to try and eliminate much of the obsolete language still found in the charter, but rather to concentrate on substantive changes. The committee recommended that professional help be retained to update wording.

Other amendments to the charter apparently approved by voters with 105 precincts out of 131 reporting:

No. 1—Charter existing language to specifically permit the city have playgrounds, swimming pools, recreation centers, or other park or recreational facilities.

No. 2—Raises the maximum fine for violation of a city ordinance from $100 to $200 and provides for imprisonment not to exceed six months. This does not apply to ordinances now in effect.

No. 3—Permits city operation and ownership of museums and historic sites and buildings.

No. 4—Removes obsolete language in the charter concerning Consumers Public Power District and defines the city authority to issue revenue bonds, as recommended by the city's bond advisory committee.

No. 5—Requires formal sealed bids for purchases of $5,000 or more, instead of the old minimum of $1,000.

Other amendments apparently defeated:

No. 4—Allowed the City Council to approve any sale of city property which has a value of over $5,000. The present charter provision called for voter approval of sales of city property valued at $10,000 or more.

No. 12—Removes the position of auditor from the charter and transfers the duties of the auditor to the city clerk.

No. 13—Provides for payment in lieu of taxes of 2% of the revenue received from the sale of electricity within the corporate limits. This was previously done by the city, but the amendment was considered necessary because of the acquisition of Consumers Public Power District and the inclusion of payment on the same basis.

No. 9—Provides that when the city and county reach agreement for the collection of city taxes by the county, then the collection will be set by county officials, and the delinquent and due dates will be the same as for other taxes collected by the county.

No. 10—Provides authorization for the City Council to employ legal help, accountants, engineers and other experts for council investigations.

No. 12—Authorizes the council to establish city departments by ordinance, with the council determining the qualifications of each director.

No. 13—Removes the position of city attorney from the classified service (a merit system) and provides that he will serve with a two-year appointment. City directors are not included in the classified service.

Our Future In Zoning

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

The past week has produced two separate proposals for the development of major shopping centers in the city of Lincoln. Both of them will bring the city to the point of a major decision as to its future in the vital area of public responsibility. It is possible that the concepts with which we have lived in the past are being tested with new approaches to the business of retailing.

This, at least, is the question we will have to answer—has our approach to zoning been outstripped by modern merchandising techniques and facilities or do we have a zoning foundation that will serve us well in the years ahead? To begin with, the question is not an easy one. We have always had public officials and others who were far too willing to give to any aspiring business whatever it wanted by way of zoning, public services and even tax exemption. We did it for the Cushman Motor Co. some years ago under threat of their departure from Lincoln and recent events have proven that we were wrong then, as this newspaper stated at the time.

We zoned a small tract some years ago near Winthrop Ltd. and South for a certain business but now it is proposed that a liquor store occupy the site. The city, however, doesn't want a liquor store there but is caught in the folly of the original zoning. You have to zone for land use, not for specific businesses and any court in the land will knock the former into a cocked hat.

Zoning is not something to be used in the pulling and tugging of business competition but rather, is the basic land use pattern for your city, the outline of the physical shape and character your town is going to have. Zoning seeks to provide ample land for all possible uses from one-family residential to heavy industrial.

It seeks to protect the residential land owner against infringement from the business and industrial prospect. It seeks to protect the business and industrial land owner from the whims of speculation and the force of financial power that tends toward monopoly or inequity. It seeks to protect the city and all its people from inefficient and uneconomical use or development of land from a utilities, transportation and public services point of view. It seeks the orderly development of a city to avoid slums and decay that come in the wake of free rein to all the economic forces that can work upon a city. All of these things can be spelled out in specific detail to demonstrate the value to every citizen of an intelligent application of zoning.

Unfortunately, the situation is not quite so simple as that. All of the above things are true but they cannot and do not guarantee against the development of conflicts. We have a conflict in the proposed shopping center east of 48th between O and Vine and the proposed center east of 48th on Van Horn. Both of these would be major commercial developments and the land use involved in conflict with the existing zoning code. The question, then, is whether the code should be enforced as it is or a zoning change approved. The center between O and Vine also includes a 15-story apartment building while the Lincoln code would permit only 12 stories.

Additionally, the Vine to O center includes land that is totally impractical as residential, although some of it could conceivably be converted to this use. Promoters of the development claim that, economically, none of the land could be used as residential. Both projects have been a long time in the making, involving the acquisition of land from various owners over a period of years.

The problems here are many. Such centers surely seem to be the wave of the future, judging from developments in Omaha and cities throughout the land. Is it possible to have such centers with the zoning code as it exists in the city of Lincoln? You have to doubt that it is.

Where is the land that could be acquired for a reasonable price for the development of such a center? Such developments cost millions even when pursued as the above two have been pursued. To force the pursuit of such centers through land currently zoned and perhaps used for business would so increase the costs as to make such developments prohibitive. Such centers, almost invariably, are developed around a nucleus of land that has never been considered prime from a local business point of view. In other words, these centers are totally out of character with past practices on which our zoning concepts are currently founded.

Without such centers, what will be the economic future of Lincoln? Can we realistically expect to dictate through zoning the exact location of such centers? Obviously, there are two sides to the shopping center questions we now face and the city will have to take a long and responsible look at the problem. In the end, our zoning must be an asset, not a liability.

Indian Officials Reject Sorghum

WASHINGTON — The Indian government has become very choosy about its diet. Not content with draining American wheat bins almost to the point of danger, the Indians are now refusing to take any grain sorghum from the United States.

Furthermore, they have been feeding stories to the Indian press which make it appear that Uncle Sam is being selfish and that Lyndon B. Johnson wants the Indians to use grain sorghum instead of wheat because sorghum is raised in Texas.

This is exactly contrary to the facts. Nevertheless, publication in the Indian press plays into communist hands.

Real fact is that India lost two million tons of grain sorghum in its recent drought. Secretary of Agriculture Freeman has asked the Indian government to take 1,750,000 tons of sorghum — less than the Indians lost. Instead, they want wheat. India, incidentally, is not paying for either wheat or sorghum in American dollars. It is paying in rupees, which will be kept in India to promote education.

The sorghum-consuming population in India is in rural areas. The wheat-consuming population lives in the big cities. Apparently the Indian government wants to take care of the big city population, let the rural population look out for itself.

J. Herbert Hollomon, assistant secretary of Commerce, believe it or not, is still flatly opposed to letting Congress designate safety standards.

Hollomon spent many years with General Electric, believes that industry should come first, the public second. He also doesn't think much of Congress.

Despite the fact that the Senate Commerce Committee under Chairman Warren Magnuson, D-Wash., was quite blunt that Congress must set auto safety standards, Hollomon is still flatly refusing to recognize this congressional right.

Mrs. Dean Rusk, wife of the Secretary of State, has complained to friends that she seldom sees her husband any more. He's too busy leaping from one diplomatic crisis to another. Premier Nguyen Ky's caretaker government is beginning to founder. Many officials simply have abandoned their duties. They are too busy politicking for positions in the new government due to be elected in August. However, Ky is now maneuvering to postpone the election. All the ingredients are present for another political upheaval long before the people get a chance to go to the polls.

Wages Lose Ground To Profits

WASHINGTON — As related by his loyal lieutenant, Sherman Adams, President Eisenhower once asked his Secretary of the Treasury, George M. Humphrey, if it were not possible for American businessmen to make some sacrifices in the interest of world peace. In his firsthand report, an account of the Eisenhower years, Adams reports the following:

"No," Humphrey replied candidly. "The American businessman believes in getting as much as he can while the getting is good."

"Maybe that's the trouble with businessmen, George," Eisenhower said seriously.

The Humphrey candor, reflecting his own capacity as a leading industrialist to get it while the getting was good, is recalled by the earnest plea of Chairman Gardner Ackley of the Council of Economic Advisers to the United States Chamber of Commerce. Recounting the record profits of the past year or more, Ackley asked the assembled businessmen to consider whether they were doing all they could to fight inflation. Does anyone, he asked, imagine that labor will continue to show moderation in its wage demands when prices and profit margins are continually rising?

The Ackley exhortation was received politely by the business community. But skeptics are saying that, in the immortal words of Senator Everett McKinley Dirksen, his homily will have all the impact of a snowflake falling on the broad bosom of the Potomac River.

Increasingly within the administration, however, the issue of profits versus wages is a cause for concern. The AFL-CIO has blasted the Johnson hold-fast line with George Meany's declaration that organized labor is not tied to the Democratic party. Secretary of Labor Willard Wirtz and others participating in the session of the President's Advisory Committee on labor-management policy are acutely aware that wages have not kept pace with prices and, therefore, the 3.2 per cent guideline must be modified.

But how to modify it without opening the flood gates to new demands is the problem. Ackley referred to the Wall Street Journal's tabulation showing profits in the first three months of this year up 12 per cent over the same period in 1965. This compilation was the red tag to the raging bull of the unions.

As the Journal's account indicated, if steel and autos were omitted — because of special circumstances they did not share in the big upswing — the increase would be 18 instead of 12 per cent. Broken down by separate industries, the gains are even more remarkable. Railroads showed an increase of 103.8 percent, building supplies 42.4, publishing companies 55.7, airlines 26.3, aircraft makers 25.1, tools and machinery 38.3.

The AFL-CIO executive council, meeting in Florida in February, released a report charging that over the past decade there has been a continual shift away from wage and salary earners "to other groups in the economy." As proof of this shortchange, the report said that while output per man-hour had been rising at the rate of 3.6 percent, the employee's compensation per hour had increased only 2.9 percent.

These figures are only a bare bones reflection of the discontent within labor's ranks. Automation has worked, thanks in considerable part to the capital supplied by big profit margins, to replace more and more workers. The railroads today, according to union economists, have only about half the payroll of a few years ago.

The showdown may come in the only big union-industry contract to be resolved this year. General Electric and Westinghouse, the giants in the industry, face new contract demands from unions more united than in the recent past. A strike in August when the present contract expires would dramatize labor's claim to a bigger share in the booming economy. The Wall Street Journal's tabulation showed profits of electrical companies up 20.7 percent.

Taxes are another sore point with organized labor; and if the White House concludes that a tax increase is necessary, the form that increase takes can be a major issue in the fall elections. With the 7 percent investment credit and the change in the depreciation rate imposed under the Kennedy administration, plus the reduction in corporate taxes from 52 to 48 per cent in the Johnson tax bill, business has had a cut of $7 billion, labor economists say. A straight across-the-board tax cut, as advocated by Federal Reserve Chairman William McChesney Martin, would draw cries of rage from the unions.

The AFL-CIO report cited the profits of General Motors — $2.1 billion after taxes in 1965, up 23 percent from 1964. There are, the report noted, no government guidelines for profits or dividends.

But what has been happening to GM, with production slowed and the resulting earthquake on the stock market, indicates the edge may be off the boom. Chairman Martin a year ago suggested parallels between 1929 and the collapse of that boom and 1965. If this is true, labor is saying, it means business got too much while the getting was good and the worker who has the buying power too little.

The Cost Of Rail Decline

The current struggle over the proposed consolidation of the Rock Island and Union Pacific railroads throws light on the rapidly diminishing function of the railroad in transporting people.

As recently as 1920 when there were only 100 million Americans they traveled 100 billion miles a year and 90 per cent of those traveled by rail. Today we are a nation of 200 million. We travel 900 billion miles a year but only 2 percent by rail. Ninety percent go overland by car. Seven percent fly.

In 1920 several railroads maintained fine passenger trains operating between Minneapolis and Omaha. Today, we understand, there is no train that will take one to Minneapolis by direct route. Railroad passenger travel has declined from 25 billion passenger miles 10 years ago to 13 billion last year. There is no longer a national passenger train network that can take you from where you are to anywhere you wish to go. The remaining runs that are operating do not necessarily run where they are most needed but where the tracks are. Soon at this rate there will only be passenger service in corridors of greatest density.

In respect to main line service Nebraska is better off than most states in that it has at least two railroads that seem bound to endure. But the nation has not yet computed the damage of the railroad passenger decline. Obviously in many places it will spell the doom of some growth areas and will be felt in a thousand ways that do not reflect directly on the railroads.

The country will not escape the consequences without considerable cost to itself. One bill is already coming in. It is for the Interstate highway. And another will soon come in. It is the $90 million experiment in super fast trains.

Liberating Information

A note of approval is due the House committee under Chairman John E. Moss, D-Calif. It is the committee that did the spade work on the secrecy of public records. The first result was Senate action liberating a great deal of public information. Now the House is moving toward passage of a companion measure. At this stage it seems inevitable that a new law will arise making the public business far more public than it has been in recent years.

The measure provides only three understandable exemptions. One is defense information. The second is foreign affairs. The third is investigative procedures. There is hardly any way in these three governmental activities that full disclosure would not be greatly detrimental to the nation's welfare. There are some who feel that even in those fields a more public environment would shield the United States of deals the public could not approve. But how to separate such instances goes beyond the capacity of human judgment.

Otherwise the measure would require full disclosure to any responsible inquirer. And that is as it should be.

What has happened in government stems from the environment of war and national growth. The discretion given to use the classified stamp at the judgment of the holder became an easy habit. It became a convenience rather than a necessity. The habit persevered after sensible causes passed away.

Earlier efforts to clear the channels of information failed in that they were too vague. The present bill is specific. It should bring back balance and good sense to the handling of public information. The quicker it is passed the better.

Doing What We Can

Sen. Robert F. Kennedy has emphasized this nation's interest in the countries of South America. Land reform and advances in education, he said, are the two avenues of approach in which the U.S. should be helping Latin America. The senator pointed to the fact that 90 percent of the land in Latin America is controlled by 4 percent of the landholders.

This is a disparity that has long worked an injustice throughout Latin America and one in which the United States is certainly interested. Latin Americans themselves have hoped to improve the situation through industrial development but progress along these lines has been painfully slow. The Alliance for Progress is still an important part of Latin America's development but it has not yet put these countries on the move.

The concentration of wealth in South America has created too small a foundation on which to build a strong economy. Too many of the Latin Americans are more of a drain on the economy than as assistance to it. Throughout the country, political instability is still a factor that impedes the best efforts toward progress. Even with all their domestic problems, the Latin American nations have been unable to agree to a non-nuclear pact among themselves.

Whatever the U.S. role is to be in Latin America, it will have to be a discreet one. We can afford to do nothing that gives credence to those Latin American voices already being raised against U.S. intervention. We can be a quiet working partner with the Latin American nations but not the major directing hand.

Nixon Works For Southern Base

WASHINGTON — In his energetic effort to win support from southern Goldwater Republicans in the 1968 presidential race, former Vice-President Richard M. Nixon seems to have decided that he can accept southern terms if southerners can accept his definitions of them.

Nixon is foraging through the Republican South this spring, speaking at party dinners, endorsing party candidates, conferring with state leaders, and billing himself as the next best available thing to Barry Goldwater himself.

There even are some early predictions that he will be able to win enough delegate support there to make the South his new 1968 power base, and indications are that he is receiving favorable response.

Barry Goldwater's old supporters there—who disdained the pictured Nixon two years ago as a loser who was bound to lose again—have not forgotten that he was a good loser at San Francisco and a party loyalist who proceeded to campaign hard for their hero that fall.

Liberal and moderate Republicans in the South—out of pocket since the Goldwater takeover—have not forgotten that they ran things in their states when Dwight Eisenhower was in the White House and Richard Nixon was No. 2 and trying hard.

In his move South, Nixon's obvious goal now is to keep both factions happy, hopeful and united. He also is trying hard to solidify his support there without relinquishing the Republican north to party rivals like Michigan Gov. George Romney in the process.

Only time will tell whether he will be successful. Today there are many sophisticated Republican political leaders in Washington who do not believe Nixon stands a serious chance of winning the Republican nomination and who believe he will prove to be no more than a "good stalking horse."

Interest at the moment, however, centers on Nixon's southern manners, for it provides a dazzling display of a professional politician saying two different things at the same time, without really saying anything at all.

He is meeting Southerners on their own, favorite terms. In southern appearances he consistently takes a strong pro-civil rights stand — but carefully refers to the issue as one of "human rights."

He is identifying himself to Southerners as one who firmly believes in "state's rights"—but insists that "a new concept" of states' rights is necessary because southern Democrats have vulgarized the term by using it as an instrument of reaction.

He is contending that southern Democrats have stunted the region's economic growth by accepting too many federal handouts when they should have been plugging for free enterprise and individual initiative.

Other Factors

Lincoln, Neb.

In regard to "Mrs. J's" letter, I would like to say this: She stated that her husband is a "union man." So is mine. However, in my own mind, there are card carriers and union men, the latter being just what it states. A card carrier is one who, when the going is good, professes to be union and takes advantage of the wages and benefits, but when the chips are down, is the first to complain and blame unions. To me, a union is the body of men who are united together to get better wages and living conditions for themselves and their families. Not the leaders, which may or may not be what WE want them to be.

In the construction industry, I believe there are factors that pose as threats more so than the work stoppage as of late. Weather, to me, is a predominant factor. However, this is in the jurisdiction of Old Mother Nature, not unions! Then there is the fact that these contracts' expiration was not a secret. And sickness and death. These things have to be expected and we have to have foresight enough to provide for them so when they do occur, we are not destitute.

A work stoppage, while not an emergency, still happens. This is exactly the reason we have the current wages and working conditions. I also differ with Mrs. J about employment conditions this past winter. They couldn't have been better.

I'm sure complaining wives are in the minority. Statements appearing have inferred that it is all the union's fault. I feel management is just as responsible and can help to bring this to an end just as easily. It would be far more sensible to endeavor to reach agreement through collective bargaining than through the news media.

Stronger Unions

Lincoln, Neb.
In answer to "Mrs. J's" letter in the May 5 Star, I'm sorry she is married to one of the "chickens" who are afraid to go speak their piece at the union meetings. I'm sure no one has twisted her husband's arm and forced him to work for a union outfit. There seem to be plenty of nonunion outfits working here in Lincoln. He is working union for the simple reason that one cannot live on the wages non-union contractors pay. The contractors will not give the men additional wages or benefits without striking.

It is a few like her who want their husbands to settle for little or nothing that tear the unions down and give the contractors the confidence to run all over the men as far as wages and benefits go. The Lincoln wage scale is below every place else and yet my husband works as hard as any man in the other towns who are drawing better pay.

I would like to see the working benefits and wages come close to where they should have been long ago. If the unions in Lincoln were stronger, it would be better for all.

'GOP' Meaning

Hastings, Neb.
I have news for J. Wood, who says that we Americans who have taken advantage of the medical insurance provisions of Medicare are looking for a "handout" and that I "do not know that it is possible to kill the goose that lays his golden eggs."

Mr. Wood has laid a rotten egg, because millions of Americans have put far more millions of dollars into the federal treasury than we will ever get under the medical insurance provisions of Medicare. There is not in America a private insurance company that will accept us as policyholders, though we have put fortunes into private hospital insurance policies and were then rejected by those companies.

Concerning "handouts," businessmen, including Republicans, are begging citizens of a 17-county area to vote in favor of the proposed central vocational technical school to be established on the Naval Ammunition Depot in Hastings. And if the voters will favor it, then the government will give that school district $34 million worth of property free of charge. Carl Curtis, Nebraska's champion conservative, has not voiced any opposition to that $34 million handout!

About a week ago, a local candidate for political office reported that Senator Curtis has finally decided to support Medicare. His late support is proof that the abbreviation "GOP" when properly interpreted mean "Grand Old Procrastinators," and like the elephant's tail, they are always behind.

The State Development Advisory Committee was told Tuesday that Nebraska cannot map a coordinated program "to solve its real problems" until a comprehensive state plan is developed.

Dr. Murlin R. Hodgell of the University of Nebraska College of Architecture also said the state is 30 years behind most of the nation in comprehensive resource planning on the state level.

Hodgell said the pre-planning phase, financed by a $25,000 federal grant and matching local services, should be completed this fall, possibly by September.

Then the state could become eligible for a federal grant of $400,000 to $500,000 to develop a resource plan and program.

The University of Nebraska received considerably lower bids Tuesday on contracts for a multi-million dollar dormitory complex which failed to generate favorable bids earlier.

Apparent low bids for the five contracts totaled $5,713,730.

Low offers at the previous bid opening totaled slightly more than $8 million, exceeding available funds, and the University Board of Regents asked that new bids be received.

The cost of the complex, which will include three dormitory units accommodating 1,500 students and an adjacent food service facility, had been estimated at $8,430,000 by designing architects.

The architects, Clark and Enersen, Olson, Burroughs and Thomsen of Lincoln, made project revisions before the new bids were received.

NU Senior Cited As Outstanding

Robert M. Bell, 22, a University of Nebraska senior, is one of 12 collegians selected nationally to receive the 1966 Chemical and Engineering News award of merit for outstanding scholastic extracurricular achievement.

A plaque in token of his honor was presented to Bell before a university chemistry seminar Tuesday afternoon by Dr. Norman E. Cromwell, chairman of the department, and Professor James H. Looker, coordinator of undergraduate advising in chemistry.

Bell is the first Nebraskan to receive the award which Dr. Cromwell said is recognized as one of the most select of its kind in the nation.

Scholastic honors, however, are not new for Bell; since his graduation from Lincoln Northeast high school in 1962 he has received 16 scholarships and awards including the Elks Most Valuable Student, a national honor.

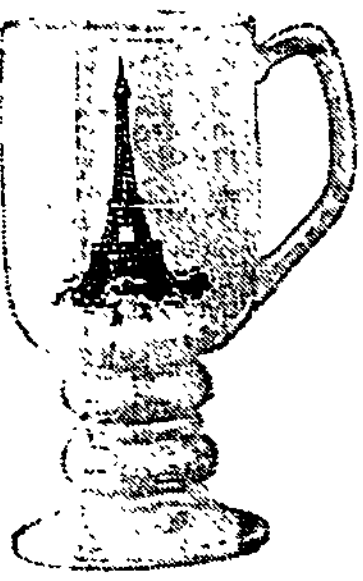

Both he and his April bride, the former Barbara Miller of Lincoln, are nominees for graduation with honors from the university this June. Mrs. Bell is a senior in Teachers College.

With Dr. H. W. Knoche, University of Nebraska biochemist, Bell is co-author of a research paper published last year by Analytical Biochemistry, a ranking professional journal.

After graduation this spring, Mr. and Mrs. Bell will go to the University of California, Berkeley, where Robert will pursue graduate study on a U.S. Public Health Service traineeship. Mrs. Bell will teach in the Richmond schools.

Robert is a member of Phi Beta Kappa and an associate member of Sigma Xi, the major scholastic honorary societies in the sciences and arts. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bell, 3820 Vine, Lincoln.

Mid-State Project OK Is Hoped

By JOHN ARMSTRONG
Associated Press Writer

Reclamation leaders said Tuesday hope remains alive for congressional authorization this year in the Mid-State project but has lessened considerably for authorization of the North Loup project.

The Nebraska projects are the two largest Missouri River Basin water development proposals pending before Congress.

"We hope to get consideration this year, but what will happen is anybody's guess," said Darrel B. McOstich of Grand Island, manager of the Mid-State project.

"I think the fact we're only asking for authorization so we can start signing water contracts will help. We wouldn't be funded for another two or three years."

Ord farmer Henry Lang, chairman of the North Loup Reclamation District, said chances for authorization of the North Loup plan "are pretty dim" because of congressional attention on the Viet Nam War.

"It appears that Congress just isn't going to be doing much with reclamation," Lang said. "I would think Mid-State would be due, with us coming in the near future."

Gov. Frank Morrison said "everybody agrees" both Mid-State and North Loup "are long over due" but he could not obtain any commitment in talks with members of the Senate Interior and Insular Affairs Committee and White House aides.

Bills to authorize the Mid-State project have been introduced in Congress since the mid-1950's, and a North Loup bill has been before Congress in each of the last four sessions.

McOstich said more committee hearings on Mid-State may be held this year but only federal officials would testify to update information on the project.

The $84 million Mid-State project, calling for the construction of 23 interconnected reservoirs on the Platte River in Hall, Merrick and Buffalo counties, would irrigate 140,000 acres.

The $44 million North Loup project, which would irrigate 52,000 acres in Valley, Greeley, Howard and Nance counties, calls for construction of reservoirs on the Calamus River near Burwell and on the North Loup River near Scotia.

Kosygin Visiting Egypt; China's Chou Due In June

Cairo (AP)—Cheering Egyptians welcomed Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin Tuesday for a visit expected to produce more Russian aid for Egypt's hard-pressed economy and tighten political ties between Cairo and Moscow.

At the same time Egyptian government sources reported that Premier Chou En-lai of China, a rival of the Soviet Union for world communist leadership and influence in other spheres, plans to visit Cairo the first two weeks in June.

They said Chou would make the trip as part of a tour that may include Pakistan, a Western ally long courted by Peking.

Kosygin is in ahead of him. Birezhnev On Way In Moscow, a spokesman for the Romanian embassy said Soviet Communist Party leader Leonid I. Brezhnev left Tuesday on a three-day visit to Romania.

Shortly afterward, a Yugoslav newspaper reported that Chou, who was expected to visit Romania this month, had postponed the trip possibly so "that the two visits do not coincide."

The Egyptian reception of Kosygin was warm, but lacked the frenzied public enthusiasm which greeted Nikita Khrushchev when he visited Egypt two years ago.

Crowds at Cairo International Airport shouted slogans of Arab-Soviet friendship as President Gamal Abdel Nasser kissed Kosygin on the cheek and the leaders' wives shook hands.

The first official function was a banquet at the Kubbah Palace where the Kosygin will reside during their eight-day visit.

The two leaders scheduled their first working meeting for Wednesday evening. Egyptian sources said economic topics, including prospects of Russian technical help in exploring for desert oil deposits, would head the agenda.

Kosygin is believed to be eager for a closer Egyptian alignment with the Russian camp a part of what may be a new Soviet drive for increased influence in the Middle East.

Wichita, Kan. (AP)—Lear Jet Corp. said Tuesday it has asked owners of the more than 100 Lear Model 23 and 24 planes in service to discontinue flights until technicians can inspect each plane's horizontal stabilizer hinge. The stabilizer controls the plane's up and down movement.

The firm said it decided to issue a precautionary directive to owners during an investigation of an accident involving a Lear jet April 23 near Clarendon, Tex. Two men were killed in the crash.

Lear has delivered 106 of the six and seven place twin jet executive planes since it went into business about four years ago.

A Lear spokesman emphasized this was a company move and not a directive from any federal agency.

Romney Fears Safety Standards

Washington (UPI)—George Romney of Michigan, a former American Motors Corp. president, urged a go-slow approach Tuesday to federal auto safety standards, with greater reliance on state and industry efforts.

Too hasty federal action, he warned the House Commerce Committee, could discourage existing safety programs, invite "another massive expansion of destructive federal domination," and endanger the economy through reduced car sales brought on by consumer uncertainty.

"Any time people decide not to buy cars, this country is in economic trouble," said the Republican governor, whose state derives one-sixth of its total personal income, or about $4 billion a year, directly from the automotive industry.

Blamed Hearings
Romney testified on President Johnson's proposed Traffic Safety Bill one day after the Ford Motor Co. announced it was joining General Motors Corp. in a production cutback because of lagging new car sales. Ford laid part of the blame on the safety hearings.

At the same time, Walter P. Reuther, president of the United Auto Workers, AFL-CIO, called for prompt enactment of federal standards for safe auto design, to be enforced through "continuing federal inspection."

In prepared testimony made public on the eve of his scheduled appearance before the House committee, Reuther said the need to halt increasing highway deaths "cannot wait for voluntarism nor for slow-moving regulatory procedures."

Called Critic
Romney called himself a critic of the auto industry "for its overemphasis on style, power and speed rather than on safety," and said congressional action was essential.

ROMNEY... warns

But he pleaded for a federal partnership with the states, manufacturers and private organizations. "The states—no the federal government—have led the fight for traffic safety with significant success," he said.

The administration has proposed authorizing the commerce secretary to set mandatory federal safety standards in two years if the industry fails to make satisfactory improvements within that time.

USDA Reports 2 Bushel Hike In Wheat Crop

... 81,783,000 Bu. Yield Forecast

By The Associated Press
The U.S. Department of Agriculture Tuesday boosted the estimated Nebraska winter wheat yield by two bushels per acre, to 27 bushels.

U.S. Outlook Declines 2%

Washington (AP) — The important winter wheat crop declined two per cent in production prospects during April, but the Agriculture Department's forecast Tuesday was 7% larger than a year earlier and 10% above average.

Production was indicated at 1.091 billion bushels compared with 1.024 billion last year, 988 million for the 1960-61 average and 1.11 billion a month ago.

Now that this country's wheat surpluses have been depleted in meeting urgent needs abroad, the government would welcome—rather than deplore as it had in many recent years—an increase in production.

No estimate will be made on the combined winter and spring wheat crops until later in the season, but a total crop of about 1.372 billion bushels is in prospect compared with 1.327 billion last year.

Last week President Johnson announced that farmers will be allotted 15% more acres for the wheat crop to be harvested next year than this year under a government control program.

Officials hope that this would bring the crop upwards of 1.6 billion bushels next year.

Judge Dittrick Assaulted While Offering His Aid

Norfolk (AP)—Police here are looking for a young man who was reported to have assaulted Madison County District Judge George Dittrick.

Judge Dittrick told police he and his court recorder, Adolph Otte, were driving down the street early Saturday when they saw three or four persons standing in the street.

The judge said he stopped his car and asked if they had car trouble and needed help.

One of the young men opened the door of the auto on the driver's side and allegedly kicked Judge Dittrick several times on an arm, hip and side.

Dittrick said he drove off after he was able to get the car door shut. He was badly bruised. Otte was not injured.

Tractor Kills Young Driver

Whitman (UPI) — James Jackson, 20, of Whitman was killed Monday while operating a tractor in the vicinity of an auto gate on the E. Goodmanson ranch north of here in Grant County. He was crushed when the tractor rolled over on him.

Jackson formerly was employed by the Bond Oil Company of Hyannis before accepting work with the Goodmansons.

Funeral services were pending.

Death Claims C. S. Ryckman; Norris Editorial Won Pulitzer

Strong Winds Damage Plant Near Morrill

Scottsbluff (AP)—Tornado funnels touched the ground at three places in the Scottsbluff area Tuesday afternoon during a rain squall which moved through the area.

The only damage reported was at the Jordon Feed Plant just west of Morrill. Village Clerk Bob Andrew reported that a tornado or large whirl wind upset a feed storage tank, jammed one fertilizer spreader into a truck and overturned another spreader.

Andrew said the twisting wind just missed a drive-in restaurant at the west edge of Morrill.

Other twisters were sighted touching ground in open country at a point five miles southeast of Stegall and 13 miles west of Scottsbluff.

Man Found Dead In Fire At Dump

Stanton (UPI)—Funeral services were held Monday afternoon at St. John's Lutheran Church here for Walter C. Moritz, 73, Stanton, who was found dead in a fire Friday morning at the city dump.

Moritz, who had been a drayman at Stanton for a number of years, was found by Lonnie Sonnenschein and his son, Waldo, County Attorney T. L. Grady and Dr. H. S. Tennant investigated.

Death was attributed to a heart attack. Moritz was believed to have either fallen into the fire or the blaze started after his seizure.

The body was severely burned.

He is survived by his wife, a daughter, two sons, three sisters, two brothers and six grandchildren.

Car thefts are on the increase

Automobile thefts are increasing at an alarming rate, to the point that they have become a national problem. Most stolen cars are covered by insurance, but more losses result in higher rates. Everyone suffers when more cars are stolen.

Independent insurance agents throughout Nebraska and the nation are placing stickers like the one shown at the right on parking meters, as a public service. This is just one of the many little "extras" you and your community get from

Powell Lashes Draft Test As Reminiscent Of Hitler

Washington (AP)—Rep. Adam Clayton Powell lashed at the national draft deferment tests Tuesday as reminiscent of Hitler's Germany and said they "should have a swastika on the top."

The tests "bring the history of racial discrimination full cycle," the New York Democrat told a news conference. "First we provide an inferior education for black students. Next we give them a series of tests which many will flunk because of an inferior education. Then, we pack these academic failures off to Viet Nam to be killed."

Twin System

Powell said the tests, the first of which will be given Saturday, "are reminiscent of Hitler's twin-system of eugenics and education — weed out the intellectually deprived or socially undesirables by conscripting them for cannon fodder."

The Harlem Negro congressman, though he described himself as a pacifist, said if there is to be any draft at all it should be based on the old "fish bowl method."

Instead, he said, "the intellectually deprived will be drafted and many 'will eventually end up in the Viet Nam slaughterhouse.'"

Alternatives

"One excellent alternative to the tests," he said, might be to permit draft-age young men the option of service to their country in other areas—such as the Peace Corps, the various war on poverty programs and other federal programs of economic and social development.

"We need to spread progress and help to the needy here and abroad," Powell said, "not drop nausea and tear gas among them or herd them like I.Q.-less cattle to certain destruction in war."

As chairman of the House Education and Labor Committee, Powell said he is asking Secretary of Welfare John Gardner to find out if any of the funds Congress voted for higher education are being used to administer the tests.

Siege Is Declared After Guatemala Taps Leftist Head

Guatemala (AP)—The government Tuesday declared a state of siege only hours after congress elected Julio Cesar Mendez Montenegro to the presidency.

Government spokesmen said the move was prompted by the kidnaping of two officials last week. Two other persons were slain during the abduction.

A 30-day limit was set on the state of siege, a modified form of martial law.

Earlier Mendez Montenegro, leader of the leftist, non-communist Revolutionary Party, was elected president by deputies for a four-year term.

Mendez Montenegro's election had been virtually assured since the March elections when his party won a majority of the 55 seats in congress.

Caro, Egypt (AP)—Egyptian Flight Capt. Helmi Mahmoud Abbas, who defected to Israel in his plane in 1964, was executed Tuesday.

Abbas later went to Argentina, but gave himself up at the Egyptian Embassy in Buenos Aires last year. He was flown to Cairo where a court-martial sentenced him to death.

SBA Chief

Bernard L. Boutin has been appointed head of the Small Business Administration by President Johnson. Boutin, 42, has been General Services Administration head and deputy director of the Office of Economic Opportunity.

UP Promises Adequate Southwestern Service

Chicago (AP)—A witness for the Union Pacific Railroad testified Tuesday that adequate single-line service would be provided through the Southwest if a merger of the Union Pacific and the Rock Island Lines should be approved.

Robert A. Lovett, executive committee chairman of the Union Pacific, was recalled for additional cross-examination at an Interstate Commerce Commission hearing in a proposed Union Pacific-Rock Island merger.

As a condition for ICC approval of the proposed unification, the Union Pacific has agreed to sell to the Southern Pacific Railway all the Rock Island lines south and southwest of Kansas City, together with 39% of Rock Island rolling stock and other equipment.

MoPac Lawyer

Lovett was questioned by Leon Leighton, counsel for the Missouri Pacific Railroad, about the expense of single-line service planned for the Southwest if the merger is approved.

"Adequate first class, single-line service will be provided if the Southern Pacific gets the southern section of the Rock Island or in the event the Union Pacific gets the entire line," Lovett testified.

The merger proposal is opposed by about a dozen Western railroads including the Chicago and North Western.

The North Western has offered a counter proposal to acquire stock control of the troubled 7,800-mile Rock Island with actual merger at a later date.

Another witness for the Union Pacific, E. H. Bailey, the line's president, was questioned by Leighton about Union Pacific's estimate that expenditure of more than $200 million is necessary to bring the Rock Island up to minimum standards.

Bailey testified the Union Pacific is prepared to spend that amount or more to upgrade the Rock Island roadbed and add equipment.

Bailey said Rock Island's various divisions are badly in need of repairs.

Gemini 9 Crew In Perfect Dual Countdown Rehearsal

Cape Kennedy, Fla. (AP)—at 10:39 a.m. The rockets are on pads 6,000 feet apart.

With their rendezvous and space walk flight just a week away, the Gemini 9 astronauts Tuesday participated in a perfect dual countdown rehearsal that officials termed an excellent omen.

It was the first time in the Gemini program that the rehearsal, called a simultaneous termination, had been conducted without any trouble.

Aid Discussion Begins

Amman, Jordan (AP)—Talks have begun here between a German Development Bank delegation and Jordan officials on financing for deepening the Red Sea port of Aqaba and construction of a railroad from the desert town of Ma'an to Aqaba, Jordan's only sea outlet.

The mock Atlas liftoff took place at 9 a.m. CST. The countdown on Gemini 9's Titan 2 rocket ticked smoothly to a make-believe launching

Force Leaves Santo Domingo

Washington (AP)—The inter-American peace force in the Dominican Republic has been completely withdrawn from the capital city of Santo Domingo, the Organization of American States (OAS) announced Tuesday.

The announcement came amid reports from diplomats here that provisional Dominican President Hector Garcia Godoy has begun a hemisphere-wide effort to get all foreign troops out of the country by June 15.

Elections are scheduled for June 1 and the new government will be inaugurated July 1.

Ellsworth Bunker, U.S. ambassador to the OAS and chairman of the special OAS Dominican watchdog committee, made the announcement of the withdrawal from the capital city.

"The force's sole function now is to protect the 27th of February Camp," he said. This camp, just outside Santo Domingo, is said to house still-intact rebel units that fought in the civil war last year.

Justice Department Vetoes Publishing Valachi's Book

Washington (U) — The Justice Department has decided against allowing convicted racketeer Joseph Valachi to publish his Cosa Nostra memoirs.

It asked a federal court Tuesday to forbid Valachi's editor to disseminate or publish the manuscript in any form.

The department said last December it might allow Valachi to publish his book and authorized him to cooperate with an editor of his choice for its preparation.

But while it authorized an attorney to negotiate with several prospective publishers, the department reserved the right to review the final manuscript before consenting to publication.

At the time the department said publication of the Valachi memoirs could be an asset to law enforcement.

Valachi — now serving a life term in the federal prison at Milan, Mich. — testified in a Senate subcommittee in 1963 about his activities in the crime organization he called the Cosa Nostra.

A number of Italian-American groups protested the proposed denature from Bureau of Prisons regulations which forbade publication of a manuscript dealing with an inmate's life history or criminal career. They said such an exception would only serve to slur Italians and Americans of Italian descent.

Decided In March
The Justice Department, in its suit filed in U.S. District Court Tuesday, said Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach decided in March against allowing publication of the manuscript.

By then, Valachi had chosen for his editor Peter Maas, a Saturday Evening Post writer who first wrote of Valachi's revelations in 1963. The department had given Maas two copies of the lengthy manuscript.

In a memo to the Bureau of Prisons, Katzenbach said his decision was prompted by several considerations, including the Bureau of Prisons regulation and its determination that, in the light of all the circumstances, publication of the manuscript would be detrimental to law enforcement.

Open Housing Law Would Plug State Loopholes

Washington (U) — The administration's proposed open housing law would have the effect of plugging any loopholes that exist in similar state laws, Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach said Tuesday.

He told a House judiciary subcommittee that although state laws would not be overridden by the federal law, any exemptions they contain would be invalid in any action brought in federal court. There are 17 such state laws.

Katzenbach, back for a third day of questioning on the bill, was questioned at length about the reach and constitutional underpinning of the housing provision. The bill also deals with school desegregation, jury selection, and protection against violence.

Some states exempt single family dwellings, and the attorney general addressed himself to this point.

"If an individual homeowner can go to a real estate broker and say, 'Sell my home, but I'm not going to sell it to a Negro,' you have destroyed a good part of the bill," he said.

He agreed with Rep. Clark MacGregor, R-Minn., that some compromises might be necessary to win passage of the bill, but added, "I don't want to see Congress go through tortures and have an ineffective law at the end."

He said suggestions that President Johnson could accomplish by executive order what the bill seeks to do are not true.

Gasoline Prices Rise

Salisbury, Rhodesta (U) — As a consequence of the British embargo on Rhodesian oil imports, the government of Prime Minister Ian Smith has raised the gasoline price by 1 shilling 3 pence (17 cents a gallon). That makes the top grade sell for 6 shillings (85 cents).

Trainmen Stage Whisky Rebellion, Strike New York Commuter Line

New York (U) — Long Island Rail Road diesel trainmen struck the nation's busiest commuter line at the rush hour Tuesday night, because beer is denied crewmen with their lunch, but executives can drink cocktails.

The LIRR called the walkout illegal and obtained a back-to-work order in Brooklyn Federal Court within hours after it was launched. A union attorney forecast a quick end to the strike.

The unique whisky rebellion followed a LIRR executive luncheon with cocktails Tuesday noon, two weeks after the suspension of a diesel crew for beer drinking at lunch.

Amount of Drink
Said a leader of the trainmen's union: "It is an effort on our part to find out whether three of our men can be suspended for having a beer with their dinner while officials of the railroad can drink unhindered at this luncheon."

The strike cut LIRR service by 20 to 30% as trainmen quit four diesel lines that serve Long Island's north shore from a Queens terminal. Thousands were inconvenienced.

Electric service out of Pennsylvania Station continued, however, as 85,000 daily commuters jammed the terminal early in an effort to beat the strike. A few trains ran late. One woman fainted in the crush. A youth had a fingernail torn off.

Taxis and private limousines reported a brisk business. City subways and buses operated at capacity as LIRR commuters sought alternate ways out of town.

"It could only happen in New York," wryly remarked Seaman Apprentice Frank Lyons.

The railroad said the strike

Disarmament Talks Recess

Geneva (U) — The 17-nation Geneva disarmament conference went into a five-week recess Tuesday after a surprise, last-minute Soviet hint that the past three months of deadlocked wrangling could still lead to agreement.

Chief Soviet delegate Alexei A. Roshchin said, "It would be incorrect to term this session of the committee as utterly fruitless. Certain proposals were made which are worth exploring."

Chief U.S. delegate William C. Foster echoed Roshchin's cautious optimism.

grew out of the suspension two weeks ago of three diesel crewmen, who were drinking beer during a turnaround stop at a Long Island station.

The union said they were lunching on pizza pies and washing the repast down with beer.

The Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen called Tuesday's strike, apparently in retaliation, after LIRR executives attended a noon luncheon at which liquor was consumed.

No Drinking On Job
Brotherhood President Harold J. Pryor called this a breach of LIRR regulations against drinking on duty and said the strike was intended "to protect the safety of both commuters and employees."

A LIRR spokesman called the walkout "blackmail," and said there was no rule against non-operating railroad employees having a luncheon cocktail.

British Ship Ends Record Voyage

Singapore (U) — Britain's largest warship, the aircraft carrier Eagle, sailed into Singapore Tuesday after setting a peacetime record for British ships by remaining at sea for 71 days.

The 50,000-ton vessel had been on patrol off Beira, Mozambique, to prevent oil tankers from taking oil into the Portuguese colony for Rhodesia.

Little Things Mean A Lot To Indian Family Of 21

Pine Ridge, S.D. (P)—Little things mean a lot in a family of 21. Another pair of shoes, an extra shirt are cherished. So it was a bonanza for the James Big Crow family two years ago when Rapid City citizens gave them $3,000 in gifts. Mrs. Big Crow had been in a Rapid City hospital after giving birth to her 24th child. Nineteen are living. While she was in the hospital, some Rapid City residents learned her family was living in a creaky four-room dwelling that was fighting a losing battle with the elements on the South Dakota prairie. There was no electricity, no running water.

Home, Car
An Associated Press story brought national attention to the family and a drive resulted in a mobile home, a car and other items for the Big Crows.

Two years later, the lives of the Big Crows have improved, though they still are skirting the edge of poverty. They've moved the mobile home into the little town of Pine Ridge on the expansive Pine Ridge Indian Reservation in southwestern South Dakota.

The oldest child, 20, is in the Navy and two of the daughters are married. The four youngest children live with their parents in the mobile home. The other 12 are able to attend boarding schools through the Bureau of Indian Affairs.

Summer Plans
"We'll have to move back out in the country for the summer after school is out," said James Big Crow, 47 and gray-haired. "Most of the kids will be staying with us again then. We'll have to use both the old house and the trailer house."

There have been some encouraging developments. Mrs. Big Crow, 42, now works at a hospital. Five of the children each will earn about $25 a week this summer by working with the neighborhood Youth Corps, as they did last summer.

Government commodities are also a big help. Discouragement. But there is discouragement, too. The father, husky man described as a good worker by those who know him, has been unable to keep working at a ranch because of a hand ailment. The car given to them and another that Big Crow bought both need costly repairs. The Big Crows remain themselves, however, that time have been worse. And although they've received a lot of help, they've earned respect in Pine Ridge by trying to help themselves.

Don't miss it. News of friends on vacation, marriages, engagements, parties, P.T.A. notes and club meetings makes good reading in the family section of "Sunday Journal and Star."

The members of our staff are more than employees. They are understanding people who have a sincere interest in making this difficult period as easy as possible for you.

House Gives Rent Money Win To LBJ

Washington (P)—The Johnson administration won a hard-earned victory Tuesday as the House voted curbed funds to keep the rent subsidy program alive for another year.

By roll call vote of 192 to 188 the House added to an omnibus money bill $2 million for subsidy payments and $20 million in authority for new contracts during the fiscal year starting July 1. President Johnson wanted a total of $28 million.

Then the House on a 296-82 roll call vote, sent the $14,017,299,000 measure to the Senate where another fight is likely over the rent program.

Earlier Tuesday, Congress completed action on an omnibus emergency bill providing $12.1 million in financing and contract authority for the rent program for the remaining part of the present fiscal year, which ends June 30.

Republicans spearheaded a drive to kill off the rent program. They had some help from Southern Democrats. The subsidy program, approved last year by Congress but not financed, carries an estimated price tag of $6 billion during its projected 40-year life.

It would provide payments to landlords who build private housing facilities for low income families. The amount of payments would represent the difference between the going rate and 25% of the tenant's income.

Some of the President's top aides spent the past two days on Capitol Hill and on congressional telephones fighting to keep the program alive. Voting to finance the program for the coming year were 186 Democrats and 6 Republicans. Against it were 69 Democrats and 119 Republicans.

Adenauer: Trip To Israel 'Success'

Bonn (UPI)—Former West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer returned from a nine-day visit to Israel Tuesday, describing his trip as a "complete success."

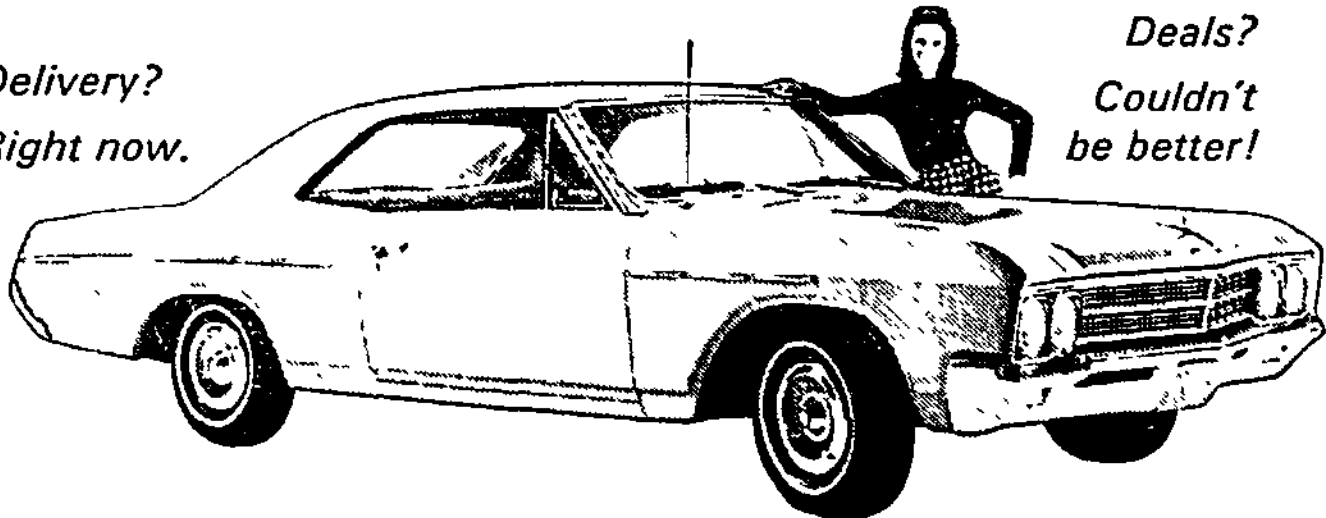

He said the flight home, in bad weather, "was quite dangerous."

The 90-year-old statesman told newsmen at Cologne's airport that 60,000 tons of rice exports to Japan in the 1966 crop year are expected to reach 60,000 tons.

by
Over to the "dry" side of the island of Kauai. Waiohai is a seaside, cottage resort on Poipu beach. It has a breezy golf course, fringed with coconut palms. A pleasant dining room, fringed with coconut pie.
In 1778, the great Captain James Cook landed a few miles from here thus discovering Hawaii. He named them the Sandwich Islands—the Earl of Sandwich was bankrolling the voyage and, as they say, "Whose bread I eat, his song I sing."
The shore was lined with monstrous Hawaiians. And the good Captain soon discovered they were stuffed with poi.

***
Captain Cook thereupon became the first tourist to sample the starchy taro root.
The jolly English tars gave him three hearty cheers.
"Cor stone the crows, Cap'n," they cried. "How is it?"
"What this place needs," said the Captain, "is a first-class restaurant and a new chef."
Malihini — newcomers — usually try a little poi. But few acquire a taste for it.

***
It's fattening stuff — you eat it by licking it off your fingers.
Hawaiian kings and queens ate it by the calabash load.
It was a requirement of royalty to run to fat — 300 pound queens were quite ordinary. A Russian navy captain visiting Queen Noma-hanna reported:
"She has certainly the greatest appetite that ever came under my observation. She was lying on fine mats before a large looking glass, stretched as usual on her prodigious stomach."
"She greeted me with her mouth full, when I witnessed, I think, the most extraordinary meal on record. How much had passed the royal mouth before my entrance, I will not undertake to affirm. But it took in enough in my presence to have satisfied six men!"

***
The Russian captain figured that was all. But—"Her appetite appearing satisfied at length, the Queen drew breath with difficulty several times, then exclaimed: 'I have eaten famously.'
"By the assistance of her attendants, she then turned upon her back and made a sign to a strong, tall fellow. He immediately sprang upon her body and kneaded her as unmercifully with his knees and fists as if she had been a trough of bread.
"This is done to favor digestion. And Her Majesty, after groaning a little, ordered her royal person turned upon the stomach and recommenced her meal."

***
Nowadays, the tourist wahines come over here and dip into the coconut pie. Then they weigh themselves and say, "These scales must be wrong! I can't possibly have put on five pounds!" (Oh, yes you can, dearie.)
Having tasted the poi, Captain Cook sailed away to look for the northwest passage in America.
He didn't come back for a year. When he did, the jolly English tars discovered the ratio of iron nails to romance. Island wahines were overcome by the gifts of nails.
"Boys," said Captain Cook, "if you don't quit pulling nails out of this ship, we'll all be swimming home to England."
He went ashore one day down at Kealakua Bay to get back a ship's boat—stolen for the nails in it.
The natives stuck him with a sharp spear and some people say they ate him.
"A salty chap," they said. "But a change from poi, poi, poi."

THE golf season for LCC women is underway

The rains came — but the weather didn't seem to hamper the activity of the golf women at the Lincoln Country Club on Tuesday. We can't vouch for the fact that anyone did 18 holes — or even 9 holes, for that matter. But we do know that the ladies were all present and accounted for when it was luncheon time in the ballroom at the LCC.

In the picture are some of the officers of the two women's golf groups—the 18-holers and the 9-holers.

the 18-hole group; Mrs. Burton W. Folsom, chairman of the 9-hole group; Mrs. C. W. D. Kinsey, treasurer of the 9-holers; Mrs. W. E. Swanson, chairman of the 18-holers; Mrs. Perry Moore, secretary of the 9-hole group, and Mrs. John Angle, co-chairman.

The bidding:
West North East South
2♥ Dble Pass 3NT

Opening lead — king of hearts.

Many hands start with declarer having no idea how he will eventually come out. On most of these, the defenders, actually in a better position to predict the outcome than declarer, since they can often tell whether the critical suits are divided favorably, or whether declarer's finesse will succeed.

This hand was played in the Vanderbilt team of four championship in 1961. Robert Jordan and Arthur Robinson were North-South against Edwin Kantar and Marshall Miles, respectively East-West.

Robinson won the heart lead with the ace, East discarding the jack of spades. He then finessed the queen of diamonds, Kantar winning with the king and returning a spade.

When Robinson now played the ace of diamonds and West showed out, prospects of making the hand diminished greatly. But Robinson, not one to give up easily, saw a chance to still make the contract, and this chance actually would have materialized except for alert defensive play by West.

Robinson led the king of clubs, Miles dropping the ten. After cashing the A-K of spades, Robinson played a club to the ace, on which Miles this time dropped the queen. Had Miles failed to play the queen on the ace, South would have made the contract by leading another club and forcing West to lead hearts. As it was, though, Robinson had to settle for down one—100 points.

The Kantar team lost the match to Jordan despite this deal on which it turned out that they gained heavily because of something that happened at the other table.

There the bidding was opened by West with three hearts. North doubled, primarily for takeout, but South converted the double to business by passing. West did not fare well, going down four, and the Jordan team lost 1,200 points on the deal. West's three heart bid was rather daring and he had to pay a heavy price for his audacity.

To Beautify Your Complexion

For sheer loveliness in complexion beauty, and to check the natural tendency for the skin to develop dry wrinkles, you must replenish oil and moisture which drain away from the surface skin. The loss of natural protective oils should be replaced by the regular use of your moist tropical oil of Olay. It will keep your skin blooming with milky loveliness, and will help to smooth away past damage. Use the Olay oil daily as a skin beautifying powder base.

NEWS of the suburban areas

Have you ever returned to your old hometown and tried to find the street you lived on as a child. Or the house you lived in? Did you find it? Some Nebraska travelers in Kansas almost gave up their search for a 44 year old home on the plains—but read and find out.

PERSHING HEIGHTS

No one would think that there would be much historical value in a quickie, 24 hour trip to Salina and Abilene, Kan., but for Maurice Allen of Garland and his traveling companions, who included Mrs. Allen and their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Allen of Lincoln and their children, Wesley, Michael, Rita and Denise, the journey was full of memories.

The original idea for the motor trip had been as a farewell to Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Steyers of Salina and their eight children who are moving soon to St. Louis, Mo., and as part of a birthday celebration for Mrs. Steyers. But soon the family decided to take a sidetrip to Abilene to hunt for Mr. Allen's childhood home—a farm several miles outside of town. The roads, of course, were changed and the travelers were lost until Mr. Allen identified a river, and following his intuition found his old barn, now filled with straw that was years old. Then it was into town to identify the stores where as a boy he had bought coal and sent his horses to the blacksmith's—the old Abilene has been preserved, and Mr. Allen found most of his 44 year-old memories intact.

We might mention that while his parents and grandparents were trekking across the Kansas plain, young Darrell Allen was the very comfortable house guest of his maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John Minzel.

COTNER TERRACE

Although plans for the approaching weekend are still indefinite, the news of last weekend's activities are still fresh. The most frequent activity? Visitors. And why not? It was the perfect weekend to visit with any feminine member of the family—or a perfect excuse for visiting anyone.

Mr. and Mrs. Dwayne Stauffer and

Tracy and Troy were hosts and hostesses on Saturday to Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Korell of Culbertson. Mrs. Stauffer's uncle and aunt were overnight guests, returning home on Sunday.

But more hosting is planned for this weekend. Sunday the Stauffers will welcome Mr. and Mrs. James Jantzi for a visit. The twosome from WoodRiver will be the guests at an afternoon family dinner, and will be joined at the Stauffer household by Mr. and Mrs. Gary Stauffer of Lincoln.

And speaking of Sunday afternoon affairs, we might mention that Mr. and Mrs. Robert Johnson, also residents of North 67th, were a host and hostess, too, last Sunday. Their visitors included Mr. Johnson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Johnson, and his brother, Maurice, of Wakefield; and Mrs. Johnson's mother, Mrs. Paul Landholm of Wausa. The threesome were weekend guests, and on Sunday the family was joined by Mr. Johnson's sister, Miss Eunice Johnson. Miss Carol Johnson of Lincoln also was a guest at the traditional afternoon Mother's Day fete.

Traveling for their supper on Sunday, May 8, were Mr. and Mrs. Darrell Karr and their youngsters, Lori, Shari and Scott, and Mr. and Mrs. Dwaine Karr and their children, Steve and Karen. The Lincoln residents journeyed to Seward to be the guests of Mrs. Mae Karr.

There are a few brave souls who despite this tricky temperature and a battle with the flu have made plans for the coming weekend. Mr. and Mrs. Sam Pendleton are expecting Mr. Pendleton's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Green of Columbia, Iowa. The Iowa residents will motor into Lincoln on Saturday morning.

ABBY

you'll get your wish

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I'm 22 years old, which is over 21, right? So why don't people leave me alone? I get so much advice I could write your DEAR ABBY column for you. I happen to be very much in love with a married man.

Although they have no children, his wife refuses to give him a divorce because she's too lazy to work and he's a good meal ticket. Everyone tells me I'm wasting the best years of my life on him, but it's my life, and I'm satisfied with things as they are. He tells me that marriage is for the birds, that it takes all the romance out of a relationship, and from most of the marriages I've seen, I believe him. Why don't people just leave me alone? This man really sends me

"SENT" IN

SILVER SPRINGS

DEAR SENT: This man should send you all right—to a head shrinker. I don't know what your friend does for a living, but if he isn't selling, he should be. Eventually you'll get your wish and everyone will leave you alone. Including your married friend.

DEAR ABBY: As a physician and psychiatrist, may I comment in answer to MAD-ISON M. D.: The girl who requested the pills, may really not want them, but rather may be craving for the friendship and advice of someone she can trust. Her confidence should certainly be respected, as few parents are able to sympathetically counsel their teen-age children.

When the members of the Forty-Niners Extension Club met Monday evening at the home of Mrs. Robert Green, a special honoree at the patio dinner was Mrs. Anna Whited, who has chosen Saturday, May 28, as the date for her marriage to Gilbert C. Meier.

The lesson demonstration on "Patio Cookery," which featured barbecued turkey and "shish kabob," was followed by supper, after which the evening hours were spent informally. A personal one-gift shower was presented to Mrs. Whited by the group.

Hostesses for the evening were the club officers including Mrs. Green, Mrs. Ray Coons, Mrs. Merle Schaal and Mrs. Wilbert E. Johnson.

The wedding of Mrs. Whited and Mr. Meier will take place at St. Teresa's Church.

Leader Of Unfortunates

Bob Dickson is a 22-year-old business student at Oklahoma State who should be the hero of:

—Everyone who has ever gone through a radar trap with a string of other cars and been the only one who got caught by the policeman.

—The guy in the office who was only one of six who made a mistake on his income tax, but he was the one whose return they decided to audit.

—The one fellow in the late-night poker party whose wife catches him sneaking into the house.

—The guy who is dealing in the blackjack game and has blackjack, but loses because he failed to bury a card.

Not Guilty Of Above

Dickson has committed none of the above sins, but in addition to being a business student at Oklahoma State, he also happens to be the key member of coach Labron Harris' golf team which is bidding for a ninth straight league championship this weekend at Columbia, Mo.

And as far as golfers are concerned, what has happened to Dickson in the last nine months is equal to the above disasters for the average working man.

Consider that last September in the National Amateur at Tulsa's Southern Hills Country Club, Dickson had shot an opening round 71 to eventual champion Bob Murphy's 73.

Then after playing the first two holes of the second round, Dickson reached in his bag for a wedge on the third hole and came up with one that was unfamiliar to him.

Upon counting his clubs, he found 15—one more than the maximum. Dickson immediately informed USGA officials and took a four-stroke penalty, two for each of the two holes on which he carried the extra club.

Dickson's score that day was 75 with the four penalty strokes and his total of 292 was just one shot back of Murphy's winning total. For his troubles Dickson has earned the title, "Unofficial National Amateur Champion."

Penalty troubles hit Dickson again last weekend in the Pikes Peak Invitational when he hit the wrong ball and was assessed a two-stroke penalty.

Different Slants On Penalties

Dickson takes a different slant on the two penalty situations and on-the-scene reports differ on what happened at Pikes Peak.

Sports writer Ralph Moore of the Denver Post, who covered the tourney, reported that Dickson hit the wrong ball on the second hole of Friday's morning round, putting him five over par on the first three holes.

"It (hitting the wrong ball) was insignificant," Dickson said in a telephone conversation from Stillwater. "It came on the 12th hole and I was already gone by that time," he modestly continues in explaining his round of 82, 10 strokes over his average that has won him every college tournament this year with the exception of Pikes Peak.

While explaining that the two-stroke penalty was a small factor in his 82 at Colorado Springs, Dickson quickly points out that he looked on the four-stroke penalty at Tulsa with a different attitude.

"That one did upset me," he remarked when queried on the Tulsa penalties. "I was playing good and all of a sudden I had four extra strokes for the first two holes."

But these are the only times Dickson has suffered major penalties in his golfing career. "Of course, I've had penalties for hazards and such, but these are the only two times, I've been penalized for what you might call carelessness."

Folks trying to find Dickson on the golf course at Columbia, Mo., this weekend can probably spot him easily. He'll be the one counting the clubs in his bag, and looking carefully at the ball before hitting it.

Sevigne Says Big 8 Cinder Contest 'Is Wide Open Race'

... HUSKERS PLAN TO BE AMONG CONTENDERS

Nebraska's Cornhuskers will challenge for the 1966 Big Eight Track and Field Championships trophy at Columbia, Mo., Friday and Saturday with a 19-man squad.

"It looks like a wide-open race between several good teams," coach Frank Sevigne said. "And we plan on being in the race for the title. If all our men perform up to

Clay Needs Fists, Too, In Title Bout

London (AP)—Muhammad Ali, better known as world heavyweight champion Cassius Clay, ended a press conference Tuesday, saying "I need more than my mouth to win this one. I need my fists."

Then Clay wandered off to do a little training for the defense of his world crown against British champion Henry Cooper here May 21. It's estimated that 40,000 will watch the open air fight. Clay maintains the biggest live audience he's fought before was 19,000.

Clay faced the cameras and newsmen wearing a hand-stitched garland from the Muslims of Pakistan. It is gold and white with brilliant at the base. It was draped over a white sweater. He wore blue jeans and brown boots. Cooper watched it all from the back of the hall.

Afterward Cooper said: "Well, he's just like me. A man with two arms, two legs capabilities, we'll have a shot at winning the meet."

Ace Husker sprinter Charlie Greene and veteran hurdler Ray Harvey, who missed the dual with Missouri last week as the Scarlets won, 83-62, are expected to be ready for full-scale labor in the loop meet.

Greene, defending champion in the 100 and 220—he won the Schulte Trophy last year in Lincoln—is entered in both events again, and will also run a leg on the NU 440-yard relay team.

"My leg feels better and I'll be ready," Greene said this week, referring to the strain he suffered during the Drake Relays.

Nebraska's chief strength in the sprints—where both Greene and Lynn Headley rate star status—the middle distances (Dave Crook and Pete Scott the vets, Les Hellbusch a fine soph) and both the 120-yard high hurdles and 330 intermediates (Dave Kudron, Lon Sherlock and Harvey).

Jim Beltzer, who has established a new NU shot record of 57-9½ and Steve Krebs, a 6-6½ high jumper, lead the Husker field delegation.

Nebraska's Big Eight entries, along with the entrants' best mark this spring:

100-yard Dash—Charlie Greene (59.5), Lynn Headley (59.6), Tom Millard (59.8), Larry Lee (59.9).

State Pushing Recreation Bill

... FASTER OUTDOOR BUILDING

By United Press International
State Game Commission Director Mel O. Steen Tuesday disclosed a Nebraska effort in Congress to advance millions of dollars to the states for accelerated construction of outdoor recreation facilities.

Steen said his department has contacted Sen. Roman L. Hruska, R-Neb., a member of the Senate Appropriations Committee, about the proposal.

"Other states are also interested in the plan but this is a Nebraska idea all the way," he said. "We are very hopeful it will be approved."

The money would be advanced this year under the Federal Land and Water Conservation Fund Act, Steen said.

He said there is now authority for repayable advance appropriations from Congress beginning in 1968 but that this could be too late.

"Nebraska and many other states need this money on an advance basis this year and next year so we can move ahead with our recreational facility building," Steen said.

"If we must wait another two years, the public that is using these facilities in increasing numbers will suffer."

The Land and Water Conservation Fund Act was approved by Congress two years ago. It is primarily aimed at creating outdoor facilities in those areas where populations have increased steadily in recent years.

The state and federal governments split construction costs under the act.

The federal part of the money comes from admission and user fees charged at recreation areas; proceeds from the sale of surplus property, and taxes on motor boat fuels.

Part of the state financing is through receipts from a portion of the cigarette tax increase approved by the last legislature.

Nebraska, Steen said, expects to receive about $12 million annually for the 25-year life of the program.

However, he said the state has already approved projects that commit funds through fiscal 1970. He said this is why an advance appropriation is badly needed.

"If we could get this money on an advance basis this year and next," he said, "we could fund these projects by 1968 instead of 1970."

Steen said up to 40% of the federal funds allocated to Nebraska are available to political subdivisions. He said more than 100 Nebraska cities and counties have indicated they will participate.

Earlier this year the Game Commission approved 70 projects for submission to the U.S. Bureau of Outdoor Recreation for review. They ranged from extensive metropolitan parks to community swimming pools to golf courses.

Harston Resigns Post At Hastings College

Hastings (U) — Dwight H. Harston, director of physical education and baseball coach at Hastings College, has resigned to become athletic director and assistant professor of physical education at Winona State College in Minnesota.

No successor has been named. The resignation is effective the end of the school year.

Don Overfield Signs As Humboldt Coach

Humboldt — Don Overfield, coach at Holbrook the past five years, has signed as football and track coach at Humboldt High School.

The former Salem prep is a 1961 graduate of Chadron State.

Kids Should Influence Own Game

Chicago (U) — Baseball at the kids' level should be for kids, suggests Stan Musial, former St. Louis Cardinal great.

Musial, head of President Johnson's physical fitness program, told a meeting of the Chicago Rotary Club Tuesday.

"Little League baseball is great, but sometimes adults take it much too seriously, instead of letting the kids have fun while they are learning fundamentals of the game."

"There is too much over-emphasis of winning or losing for an 8 or 9-year-old, who should be having fun and finding out about team-work on his own."

Musial, a vice president of the Cardinals, and here for a series with the Chicago Cubs, said the National Physical Fitness program was progressing well.

"Trained staffs are demonstrating techniques of fitness training for teachers throughout 50 states," he said. "Many states have strengthened fitness programs for youth at neighborhood levels and in industrial plants."

Emerson Defeated

Rome (U) — Italy's tireless tennis veteran, Nicola Pietrangeli, wore down top-seeded Roy Emerson and defeated the great Australian 3-6, 6-1, 3-6, 6-8, 6-1 in a three-hour men's singles semifinal match of the Italian International Tennis Championship Tuesday.

Nate Branch Standout In Two Fields

Editor's Note: The following feature on Nebraska basketball star Nate Branch was written by NU School of Journalism student Harry Argue.

A Cornhusker basketball standout will be featured at the annual School of Journalism banquet Saturday at the Nebraska Union, but neither basketball nor journalism has anything to do with his appearance.

That night Nate Branch and his Combo will provide music for the banquet and dance. According to Branch, the group plays everything from classics to rock 'n' roll because "we started out to be different from other combos in the area."

The 6-4 junior from Palo Alto, Calif., picked up his interest in music while singing in the church choir where his father was a minister. He said he liked to stay and listen to the piano and learn how to play. Eventually he took six lessons but Branch said he really didn't "get it" until he taught himself.

His present combo was formed when Branch, Larry Loftus and Fred Riva, both Sophomores, decided to enter the "April Foolishness" talent contest of Selleck Quadrangle (a university dorm complex) in 1965. With Branch on the piano, Riva on the guitar and Loftus on the drums, they won the contest.

"Since then, it has been one job after another," Branch said. Dates have included the 1965 Homecoming dance, Lincoln State Hospital shows, wedding receptions, proms and dances.

Branch said that the group plans to cut a record soon and more could be coming. The musicians have written a song in the last three weeks.

Music, however, is still a sidelight for Branch, a regular on the Cornhusker basketball squad that posted a 20-5 record last season. He averaged 13.5 points a game, hitting 41% from the field and 73% from the free throw line.

He was also a leading rebounder, pulling down 170. In the 92-79 defeat of Oklahoma in the Big Eight Tournament in Kansas City, Branch hit 11 free throws among his 29 points, both individual team highs for the season.

Branch is already working out for next season and is looking forward to playing pro basketball. In addition, he says he hopes to go into music when his basketball days are over. Until then, he says he'll keep on giving his all to each.

Chicago (U) — The expected damage to the wheat crop freezing temperatures Monday night failed to materialize and speculators in the grain futures market became active sellers Tuesday with most commodities closing at least slightly lower.

The only gainer was rye which moved up about a cent a bushel on speculative support. Setbacks in other grains were limited to small fractions while soybeans declined about a cent at the extreme.

At the close, wheat was 1 1/4 cent higher, corn 1/2 cent, soybeans 1/2 cent, soybean meal 1/2 cent lower, May 1924-1925 oats 1/4 cent higher, May 1924-1925 rye 1/4 cent higher, May 1924-1925 soybeans 1/2 cent lower, May 1924-1925, $2.00-1.00.

NU Band Day Program Changes Are Announced

There will be some changes in the annual Band Day at the University of Nebraska Sept. 24 when the Cornhuskers host Utah State.

There will be no halftime formations on the football field, but the combined bands will play in the stadium. The halftime formations will be eliminated because of possible damage to the field by some 3,500 marching bandmen during the rehearsal and performance.

The usual Band Day parade through downtown Lincoln will begin at 9:30 a.m. It will be telecast throughout Nebraska by KUON-TV and commercial stations.
